

The "361" Club

January 7, 2004

The meeting was hosted by Forrest Shue who, because of his excellent preparation (good bread) and selection of a winning challenger, is no longer on probation. Although he still has no friggin nickname he seems to grasp the costume concept.

The name of the organization has been changed to The "361" club. It was also decided that any member who discloses the meaning of the name will be dismissed without refund of the $10,000 initiation fee and will be stoned with dried out corks.

The challenger was an excellent sparkling wine from V. Sattui Cellars. The reigning champion was the ever popular Moet and Chandon. In a stunning upset, V. Sattui was named the new champion.
