Traditions vs the Pandemicthe world according to Zoom

A Birthday Celebration

During the pandemic, more than ever, it is good to remember the things that we should really be thankful for. The traditions of the 361 Club are a great example of what we should hold onto. Pancho took the reigns and organized a Zoom meeting to celebrate the memory of Calamity F. Jane on her birthday. The meeting was attended (zoomed) by Pancho F. Villa, Kit F. Carson, Cattle F. Kate, Hia F. Watha and Boon F. Doggle. Guests included Connie and Paul, next door neighbors of Hia and Boon. Finally, our special guests of honor were Calamity's daughter and grandchildren. It was a wonderful group that would have been even better in person.

Some Technical Challenges

The attached picture illustrates that Boon's ability to produce documentation of club meetings was completely overwhelmed. Looks like some intense training or perhaps therapy will be required. The remainder of this document illustrates Boon's complete disarray in reporting on this meeting. However, the late delivery of the minutes was the result of supply chain issues faced by our typesetting operation.

Oh well, it can only get better.

The best of France???

Since they are traditionalists Hia and Boon went to two little known regions of Champagne, New Mexico and California for these excellent contenders. Consistent with the top-notch reporting of this meeting nobody has any idea which one was the winner.

Kit and Pancho

It looks like Kit and Pancho have selected a label much more familiar to traditional tasters. Although it doesn't seem to have any competition it was certainly a fine choice.

At least it appears to be French

Trivia

To complete the party Pancho devised a trivia game complete with prizes. Everyone enjoyed reliving the fun times and Boon demonstrated that writing the minutes in no way implies that one remembers anything.
