

August 27, 2008

The French back in control!

The rioting in France has stopped as a traditional “Champagne” has taken the crown back from the Italian upstart Santa Margherita Prosecco. Pierre Peters (to be called “Pete Pete” in the future) won a narrow victory over the champion. The male members of the club voted for the Prosecco while the females voted for Pete Pete. The tie breaking vote was cast by first time hostess, Kit, who maintained her alliance with the female voting bloc.

The Contenders

Kit, a big hit in hostess debut

The arena, prepared by Kit before the onslaught of the drunken club members. Featured is the new dining room furniture recently acquired by Kit and Poncho.

The Arena - Before

As the meeting progresses Kit can only wonder how and why she has gotten herself into this mess. The rest of the members seem indifferent to her plight.

The Arena - After

Delicious pizza

The traditional foods!

Chocolate of mass destruction

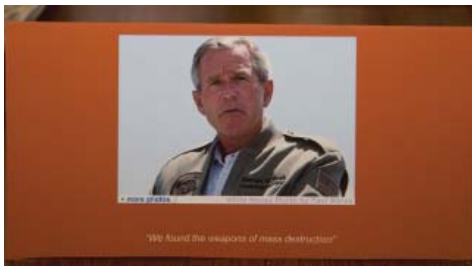

August 27, 2008

Member Antics

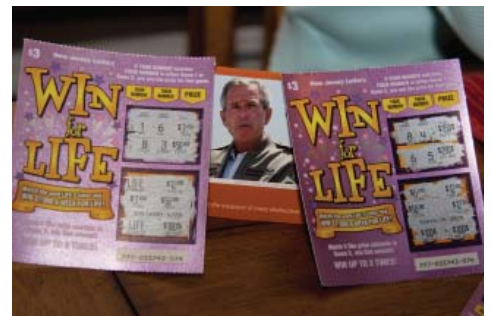

Politics at the 361 club

In an effort to enrage Boon, which succeeded, he was given a place card with the likeness of our often misunderstood president.

In a further effort to give our nation's leader the credit he deserves the 361 Club became an early adopter of the latest administration plan to save the economy.

The 361 Club Lyin'

The new economy

Poncho's new career

Poncho showing some of the results of his newest business venture - state of the art produce and related accessories. At the right he demonstrates the latest in safe vegetable practice with a demonstration of the newly invented produce condom.

Size matters

Safety first