

December 26, 2007

Previously undefeated Perrier Jouet loses in major upset

Perrier Jouet was narrowly defeated by previously untried Victoire in a closely contested tasting. Hia "Friggin" Watha and Calamity "Friggin" Jane picked the previously undefeated Perrier but were outvoted by Kit "Friggin" Carson, Poncho "Friggin" Villa and Maureen "Friggin" guest.

The contenders

Impressive Backups

In addition to the fine "official" contenders two additional bottles were consumed. First, Poncho (Pancho) and Kit provided a bottle of the Rose version of the ever popular "Widow". It was outstanding.

The second bottle was presented by Maureen "Friggin" Guest. It was an amazing 1988 Dom Perignon. Maureen is obviously trying to raise the 361 Club standards (a real challenge).

Great moments in formatting

As you may have noticed, the format of the minutes has changed. You may ask was it for reasons of style, productivity, etc.? Actually the change resulted from a computer crash. Boon, when he attempted to reload software, discovered he had lost the source disk containing the software used for the official minutes. Boon will long suffer for his mistake – the minutes are now created in Microsoft Word.

The arena prior to the festivities

December 26, 2007

The members in action

How can a basket be this funny?

Champagne makes Kit very happy

Calamity looks alarmed as Hia prepares to violate the no spitting rule

Poncho, focused on the "arts and crafts" portion of the meeting

Arts, Crafts and Desserts

This meeting saw a continuation of the dessert art concept introduced by Annie "Friggin" Oakley. The participants really seem to enjoy decorating marshmallow.

Poncho's effort spilled onto his napkin

Hia stayed on the playing field

Somehow, Calamity made her marshmallow look like half eaten pizza