Yet Another Venue

....do we really know who owns these homes?

Befuddled

Where are we?

There appears to be a pattern emerging. Hia and Boon have been hosting meetings at locations where they don't happen to reside. Although these sites are supposedly the homes of relatives it is clear that Kit and Pancho are somewhat concerned about the possibility of prosecution for trespassing.

Chaperone on duty

Fortunately the owners of the home left a chaperone on duty. He successfully maintained some decorum and probably prevented serious damage. Although not consuming alcohol he seemed to be enjoying himself

...and enjoying it

The Legend Lives On

Perrier Jouet has had a long history of success at 361 Club tastings. It has rarely been defeated and was temporarily retired from competition following a lengthy series of victories. The contender, Drappier (not to be confused with "Crappier") was highly regarded by the club members and lost in a split decision. Pancho and Kit picked the winner and Hia liked the newcomer. Boon did not vote because he is not considered to be of sound mind.

The beat goes on

Typical Nourishment

Tradional Pizza

It's Superbowl weekend

A gooey pretzel mess

Great Wine

As usual the members enjoyed the typical fare - fun to eat with no known nutritional value.

Good Behavior

Most likely due to the presence of the Chaperone the group was remarkably civilized. We'll get over it.

Eating quietly rather than fist fighting
