

March 6, 2009

When will a real Champagne win?

In what must be considered another upset Champagne Aubry, a contender from the traditional Champagne region, fell victim to the reigning champion Cave de L'aurance, French but not Champagne. With Kit, the hostess, abstaining the club members votes were split but both Friggin Guests (see below) preferred the Cremant.

The contenders

Surprise first time guests

James A and Lauren "Friggin" Guests

Much to the surprise of Boon and Hia the surprise guests were their "Friggin" son and daughter-in-law. A great time was had by all as James A (of football pool fame) and Lauren fit in well with the club member's antics. Although their comfort with the club members made for a great meeting, it does not speak well for their moral character or their long term potential to survive in civilized society. But, after some Champagne, who cares?

How long can she take it?

She must have said something nasty

It began with Kit bashing Hia whenever the club met at the C.F. Kate residence. Apparently the custom is catching on in terms of both venues and participants.

March 6, 2009

An old award revived

Not seen since the infamous “Pimps and Hos” New Year’s eve tasting the “Booby Prize” was awarded to a newly deserving club member. The competition was fierce.

Pancho - devious

The “Booby Prize”

Hia - focused

Boon - clueless

Kit - confident

C. F. Kate - a deserving winner

Boon’s cluelessness was a direct result of the puzzles created by Pancho for the place cards. In keeping with the meeting’s numbers theme each place card contained a riddle based on number sequences far beyond the mental acuity of an intoxicated senior citizen.

The amazing “Pancho Pizza”

Once again Pancho came through with one of his famous tomato pies. And, following tradition there was a chocolate clad treat.

It looks as good as it tastes

Chocolate - and numbers