

November 3, 2017

A Return to the Chalet

A Quiet Meeting

A great place to relax

Once again a meeting was held at the lake side home of Cha F. Cha and Two F. Step - and once again they were absent. Burglary? The meeting was hastily called as soon as it was clear that the club could break into the house. Due to the short notice the meeting was remarkably free of crazy costumes, Bill Murray worship icons, new Calamityware products and fist fights. The apparent calm at the meeting should not be interpreted as an indication that club members are approaching adulthood. Mainly it provides an excuse to shorten the minutes and decrease Boon's unsustainable workload.

An interesting rematch

Old Foes

The tasting, by accident, turned out to be a replay of the summer meeting in Ocean City. At that meeting Taittinger was declared the winner with two votes for each contender and the host's (Pancho's) vote being dropped. At the current meeting

Taittinger prevailed in a shutout, receiving all four votes. The two votes that changed were Pancho and Boon. A variety of explanations, ranging from senility to moon phases have been offered for their inconsistency.

The Arena and Fine Dining

The arena

Attacking the pizza

The arena (upper left) before the mayhem. Club staples pizza and a rich, chocolate laden dessert were served. All was well during the feast except Kit and Hia's apparent disdain of Pancho's pizza consumption. Apparently, since they weren't fighting they had to seek other outlets for their aggression.

Before

After