

December 8, 2006
Page 1

This the 25th 361 club meeting. In honor of that occasion the minutes/newsletter is being published in a two page format. Hopefully, in addition to commemorating the occasion, this format will produce large enough print to allow the more elderly members to actually read the minutes.

The introduction of a Rose Champagne at the November 21st meeting created a problem. How do you have a blind tasting with different colored contenders. Calamity dodged the issue by presenting another Rose as the challenger.

To add to the fun and drunken behavior, two additional wines were tasted (guzzled). First was a Rose version of Poncho's perennial challenger - V. Sattui. The other was a "normal" colored bottle of Piper Heidsieck Brut Divin.

The contenders:
The champion was Rose from Nicolas Feuillatte (the ever popular "fellatio"). The challenger, a Rose version of a club favorite - Veuve Clicquot Ponsardin ("The Widow").

It was no contest - Boon, Poncho and Hia all voted for the new champion - "The Widow". Kit cast a reluctand dissenting vote for the reigning champion.

Hia force feeding an unwilling taster.

The arena - with Champagne poured and ready to taste.

After viewing the contents of Calamity's refrigerator the members took a collection to help her buy "sides" to go with her turkey.

Kit and Poncho enjoying the festivities (drinks).

No comment required.

The wide-eyed hostess and owner of the frozen turkey - Calamity "Friggin" Janc.

The membership decided to hold a New Year's Eve tasting with a "pimps and ho's" theme. Boon seems conflicted about which role to play.

Of course, dessert!